Identify any projects or programs you have been involved with through your school or community that would show you can follow through with long-term commitments. You might include volunteer activities, church groups, sports teams, or school clubs that lasted at least one school year.

What experience(s), skills and/or attitudes do you have that would make you a great peer educator who is interested in making a difference in your communities by talking to others about difficult subjects like sex and condoms?

What are goals that you want to accomplish in the coming year and how would involvement with Diverse and Resilient's Community Health Promoter program help you to reach them? (For example, applying to a college or an internship.)

Is there anything else you'd like us to know?

Diverse and Resilient's 414ALL Community Health Promoters (CHPs) generally meet twice per month for two hours; have weekly check-ins via phone, text, email, or Facebook; and are given a stipend to support their involvement. CHPs decide how much time they want to spend distributing condoms, and are encouraged to do so in their existing social circles. CHPs also work to develop their own leadership skills along the way. A background check will be required in order to become a CHP.
